

Abstract

A screw intended for use on hard masonry or concrete has a thread that constitutes a row of teeth bordering on one another that are offset laterally with respect to the thread's longitudinal axis. The thread has a sawtooth contour.

-----